

AAT Advanced Diploma in Accounting

The qualification will help participants master more complex accounting disciplines including financial processes, Advanced bookkeeping, final accounts and ethical practices for accountants.

Who can study AAT?

AAT is perfect if you're looking to study a professional qualification in accounting and finance.

Unlike some other qualifications, there are no entry requirements with AAT, and you don't need any relevant work experience. Even though there are no entry requirements, it will help if you're good with numbers and committed to putting in the study hours.

Who is the AAT

The Association of Accounting Technicians (AAT) is the leading qualification and membership body for vocational accountants.

AAT work across the globe with around 130,000 members in more than 90 countries. AAT members are represented at every level of the finance and accounting world, including students, people already working in accountancy and self-employed business owners.

AAT members are ambitious, focused accounting professionals, many occupying senior, well rewarded positions with thousands of employers - from blue-chip corporate giants to public sector institutions.

What is an Accounting Technician?

Accounting Technicians aren't limited to just one role in one industry - becoming AAT qualified means you could work in the accounts department of any business - whatever shape, size or sector. You could even work for yourself in your own business!

AAT combines practical skills with accountancy knowledge. Roles are varied, but here are some of the things you could be doing:

Preparing financial accounts, Business restructuring, Company financial control, Corporate finance, Double bookkeeping, Financial journalism, Financial legislation and compliance, Fund management, Insolvency, Investment banking, Management consultancy, Mergers and acquisitions, Offshore trusts, Tax consultancy.

Internationally recognised qualifications

AAT qualifications internationally recognised and based on practical, real-world accounting knowledge that you can put to use from day one.

The AAT Qualifications are a professional, highly respected sign of commitment and excellence in the industry. While the range of bookkeeping and small business qualifications work for employees and employers alike, to deliver key business skills.

EIMF Classroom preparation courses

Classroom courses prepare participants for the computer based exams for each unit, covering the full syllabus with lots of exam style lecture examples and guided question practice. We provide a comprehensive study pack and set a final mock assessment for you to complete ahead of your real exams. We offer evening courses from our Nicosia centre. Our brand new revision courses are designed to prepare participants for the synoptic assessments which participants can attempt only once they have passed the computer based exams for that level

EIMF is the only approved training partner and computer assessment centre in Cyprus

AAT does not deliver training directly. AAT qualifications are delivered by AAT Approved training providers around the world. AAT Approved training providers must meet the AAT high standards before they are approved to offer AAT qualifications. AAT conducts regular checks to ensure that we meet their regulatory requirements and rigorous standards.
